Forecast for Sunday 20 Feb 2022

Weather: Cloudy with outbreaks of occasionally heavy snow soon turning to rain on all but the highest summits. The rain turns more showery towards dawn and the showers turn increasingly to snow at all but the lowest levels through the afternoon. Risk of temporary blizzard conditions with lying or drifting snow over the higher slopes. Towards midnight the showers may merge to give a longer spells of sleet or snow.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 800m: Around 40% in west and 60% in east.

Low cloud and visibility: Periods of cloud above 600m in west but cloud more occasional at times in east. Otherwise visibility very good but several kilometres in low level rain and a kilometre or less in heavier snow and snow showers and near zero in temporary blizzard conditions.

Met Office Aberdeen Meteorologist's View

Gusts around 75mph over ridges and summits through morning. Difficult underfoot conditions expected with rain falling onto snow and a partial thaw, then re-freeze, of lying snow with fresh snow falling onto to this.

Forecast for Monday 21 Feb 2022

Weather: Overnight rain, sleet and snow clearing south to leave a bright day with sunny spells and increasingly isolated snow showers followed by a dry afternoon with long sunny spells, although the sunshine becoming hazy later. Cloud thickens through the evening with outbreaks of sleet and snow reaching western ranges towards midnight.

Maximum wind: Westerly veering northwesterly 30-35mph, gusts around 55mph over ridges and summits, easing 20-20-25mph through morning, then backing more southerly 10-15mph in evening, increasing again later.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 800m: Around 60% at first rising close to 100% by afternoon

Low cloud and visibility: Occasional or periods of cloud above 600m at first, cloud then gradually lifting above the summits. Otherwise visibility very good falling briefly to around a kilometre or so in snow showers.

Temperature: Glens: Around plus 1 Celsius rising to plus 6 or 7 Celsius by early afternoon
At 800m: Rising to around plus 1 through early hours, then falling to minus 3 Celsius
Freezing level: Around 500m rising briefly to 900m through early hours then falling back to 300m
